

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In a connecting structure of an air duct of a vehicular air conditioning unit, an end of the air duct is engaged with an air conditioning case when an instrument panel is mounted on a vehicle body with the air duct. Therefore, a sealing member such as packing is not required between the connecting portions of the end of the air duct and an air outlet port of the case.